Digital Metrology
Standards Consortium

About the DMSC™

A primary mission of Digital Metrology Standards Consortium (DMSC, Inc.) is to identify urgently needed standards in the field of digital metrology, in order to promote, foster, and encourage the development and interoperability of these standards, along with related and supporting standards that will benefit the industry as a whole.

The Dimensional Measuring Interface Standard (DMIS) and the Quality Information Framework (QIF) are two such standards that the consortium has the responsibility to continue development, maintain and support as well as to coordinate and harmonize with other related standards efforts.

The DMSC is an ANSI Accredited Standards Developing Organization, as well as an A-Liaison to ISO.

The consortium invites participation within the consortium of other standards groups and activities that seek to resolve the technology and other issues of automated (digital) metrology.

DMSC Membership Benefits

Leading companies working together to leverage their collective efforts to improve the representation and exchange of product quality with product definition data:

- » Direct influence on direction and development of the QIF standard
- » Access to Subject Matter Experts (SME) already doing QIF production implementations
- » Best Practice sharing through educational Technical Workshops and Round Tables
- » Engage major OEMs that have adopted QIF as part of their Model Based (MBE) Strategy
- » Knowledge sharing with other leading QIF users and developers
- » Solve mutual metrology industry issues through collaboration with other DMSC members
- » Educational assistance in integrating systems and supply chains
- » Build relationships with key vendors that have proven technical products and services
- » Participate in the proliferation of consistent interoperable metrology standards
- » Advance international standards for product data exchange
